Summary of the News in Today's Herald

GENERAL

The army transport Powhatan, with five hundred persons aboard, is in distress five hundred miles off New York. Many ships are standing by in answer to her call, and the Cedric will take over her passengers, while the Western Comet will try to tow her to Halifax. The Yarmouth, carrying $2,000,000 worth of liquor, is being towed to New York by a coast guard cutter. Earlier last night she reported herself sinking.—Page 1, Part 2.

Senator Borah, Republican "Irreconcilable," has asked Major General Leonard Wood to state his position with respect to the League of Nations in the peace treaty. This is the second letter of the kind addressed by the Senator to candidates for nomination for President.

The Senate subcommittee investigating naval medal awards will ask for full authority to inquire into Rear Admiral Sims' starting charges of Navy Department mismanagement during the war, and purposes to go to the roots of what promises to be a sensational scandal.—Page 1, Part 2.

All candidates for nomination for President are working hard to win in the South Dakota primary. While the principal contest seems to be between Governor Leonard Wood and Governor Frank O. Lowden, Senator Poincaré will make a speaking tour of the State and General Wood must accept his challenge for a joint debate or lose his place on the primary ballot.—Page 4, Part 2.

Although trolley service on five Staten Island lines was ordered discontinued at midnight, the superintendent, upon whom injunction papers had been served, kept the cars running until three o'clock. Thirty city buses were to begin operation at six.—Page 3, Part 2.

William J. Bryan, speaking here before the Society of Arts and Sciences, says the Senate should ratify the treaty and then ascertain if the President will accept the reservations. He declares that the President cannot in good faith with his associates who framed the treaty say in advance what reservations he will accept.—Page 4, Part 2.

The second Pan-American financial conference begins today in Washington.—Page 6, Part 1.

The American Federation of Labor will fight the anti-secession bills, declared Samuel Gompers.—Page 5, Part 2.

The possibility of taking photographs in space was suggested by Dr. Goldard, of rocket fame.—Page 2, Part 2.

New York city sees John F. Kramer, who has charge of federal enforcement of the dry laws.—Page 3, Part 2.

Wealthy proprietress of rooming houses in Brooklyn Heights drops dead as she is about to be cleared of a petty larceny charge.—Page 8, Part 2.

Campaign chairman promises $2,500,000 here at opening of bond drive for "Irish Republic."—Page 7, Part 2.

Settle machinery of the two old parties and drop third party efforts, Socialists are urged by Social Democratic League.—Page 4, Part 2.

Scientists should elevate themselves to useful research instead of wasting their time on spiritualism, declares Rabbi Schulman.—Page 4, Part 1.

Candidates of the Republican nomination for the Presidency have made New York city their Mecca and various booms are being brought here for nourishment.—Page 4, Part 2.

"Sweet revenge" awaits tenants in new income tax report requiring all to list rent profiteers for action by Department of Justice.—Page 3, Part 1.

Huge terminals and bases of the United States Army along Atlantic coast and Gulf to be leased to private concerns, Secretary Baker announces.—Page 2, Part 1.

Lawyers for the Assembly in conference in Albany set the stage for the opening of the trial of the ousted Socialist Assemblyman, which begins tomorrow.—Page 1, Part 2.

FOREIGN

Premier Clemenceau has resigned, and President Poincaré, according to a special cable despatch from Paris by Julian Harris, has asked Alexandre Millerand to form a new Cabinet. Doubt whether Clemenceau's official connection with the peace conference ceases with his resignation perplexes officials, and Mr. Deschanel, President elect of France, it is believed, is likely to insist on the appointment of another delegate.—Page 1, Part 2.

Russia welcomes Emma Goldman, Alexander Berkman and the other reds from the Soviet Ark without a cheer after long wait of "undesirables" for pledge of safety.—Page 2, Part 2.

The Bolsheviks are sending Chinese regiments to the Baltic front, where the Letts have repulsed the Reds in the direction of Pskov, and Polish troops have captured the greater part of the German occupation force near Argenta, advancing several hours before the time agreed upon for the German evacuation, Berlin news.—Page 2, Part 2.

Demand that the former Kaiser be surrendered for trial has been served upon Holland by the Supreme Council of the League of Nations, according to Paris Temps.—Page 1, Part 2.

Irish was spoken in Belfast City Hall and the "Red Flag" sung after the recent election, in which the Unionists and Nationalists lost heavily to the Sinn Féin and Laborites.—Page 1, Part 2.

SPORT

Ray Gould, world's court tennis champion, was within one point of victory in a match with Walter Kinsella at Tuxedo when he met with an accident which stopped the contest.—Page 10, Part 2.

Leslie Boyd, a Harlem youngster, created a sensation by winning two metropolitan skating championships at the Tremont Avenue rink.—Page 10, Part 2.

J. O'Neill led a field of twenty-five in the trap shooting contest of the New York Athletic Club with a score of 94.—Page 10, Part 2.

MEUBLES DE GOUT

Saturday Was
Benjamin Franklin's Birthday

The drawing room here will be a new picture of him to many, and without doubt must have been made during his lifetime.

He was born at Boston, in New England, January 17, 1706.

It is interesting to read, from Franklin's Letters and Miscellanies, written during the times of Revolution and of the formation of the Government of the United States, to realize that politics then was about as difficult as it is today.

"Poor Richard" signed many of his letters "Veritas," and when he signed his own name it was generally

"B. FRANKLIN"

Evidently he had, with all his experience and ability, to encounter much opposition while he was laying the foundations of our country.

It may be seen that a very bitter attack was made in 1763, in the shape of protest against his appointment as agent of the Province of Pennsylvania, in which it was pointed out that he was unfit because "he had just failed of election to the Assembly" and for other reasons, some of them even insinuating his mismanagement of public funds.

In spite of the bitter protests and attacks so often made against him, Franklin still maintained a calm demeanor with the philosophic content of the man who knows that he is in the right, and when he was leaving for England in 1764 to submit the cause of the Colonies, he wrote:—

"I am now to take leave [perhaps a last leave] of the country I love, and in which I have spent the greatest part of my life—Esto perpetua! I wish every kind of prosperity to my friends—and I forgive my enemies."

How familiar some of these old, bitter bickerings sound nowadays in what we are pleased to call our days of greater enlightenment, and how small would all the little partisan quarrels of today seem to Franklin, whose labors concerned no little appointment to office or small offense to officials of the district, but no less than the construction of the world's greatest and most prosperous nation, that remembers today to venerate his memory!

Pray for more plain common sense and the spirit of Franklin to be given to our leaders and representatives in Washington.

[Signed]

John Wanamaker

Fine Furniture
in the February
Furniture Sale

Its Particular Significance This Year

The Furniture Sales of yesteryear have all been remarkable in their day. Carefully planned and largely worked-for sales with wonderful results.

This Year

The task loomed gigantic, what with the present furniture shortage, in the tremendously increased prices. Who would attempt a Million Dollar Sale under such conditions?

BUT we have a way of attempting the impossible—

And Achieving It

In spite of the almost overwhelming conditions there is this sale of a Million Dollars of Furniture at ten to thirty-three per cent less in price.

Every piece of furniture for the home enters this sale—nothing has been held out as too fine. All at a price lessening of 10 to 33 per cent. (The furniture in Les Galeries Belmaison and Au Quatrieme is excepted.)

Furniture for the most formal drawing-room, the most important dining-room, the most delicate and fastidious of bedrooms.

Examples of This Fine Furniture

Are the suites in fine mahogany designed from old period furniture.

This is a set of unusual charm. Was $2,770. Now $2,493.

Other bedroom suites are in the Early American style, of mahogany, and the beds are charming four-posters.

Still other suites are Louis XIV. and Louis XVI. in ivory enamel and light gray. Very dignified and beautiful suites in dark mahogany are made on lines reminiscent of the Empire.

Living-room Furniture

Sets of two or three pieces—davenport and two arm-chairs or davenport and one arm-chair—are among the finest pieces designed for beauty and luxurious comfort. Typical of these sets is one of black and gray "antique" velvet, beautifully brocaded is of fine walnut, beautifully grained and satin-smooth of surface. The set consists of ten pieces: buffet, closed china closet, extension table and five side and one arm chair.

This set has taken a great deal that is charming and lovely in an elaborate Louis XV. design and simplified it for its own needs. The table is very true to type, long and comparatively narrow, with the gracefully curved legs of the period. The chairs carry out the same theme, and every piece is beautifully decorated with characteristic Louis XV. scrolls. The brasses on the buffet and closed china closet repeat the Louis XV. motif. It is a remarkably beautiful set.

At $1,003.50. Was $2,538.

That is but one dining-room suite. There are others as characteristically fine. One of mahogany in a Chinese Chippendale adaptation, very beautiful proportioned and dignified, ten pieces.

At $900. Was $1,013.

Bed-room Suites

of unusual fineness and newness of idea are an important feature in this sale. Quaint old designs have been most successfully adapted to do modern duty; a happy effort has been made to get away from the banal.

From the Italian Renaissance has been borrowed a beautiful design for a bed-room suite of fine walnut, eight pieces comprise the set: two beds, a chest of drawers and mirror, bedside table, a bench and an interesting chiffonier.

The walnut has been a flat antique finished and where it has been carved a wash of antique gold has been put on the highlights.
